archbishop to be sympathetic to Cardinal James McIntyre. Cummings must have been born too late to have heard of the cardinal's near-legendary temper tantrums brought on by the slightest challenge to his authority. The hubris of of Cardinal Bernard Law pales before the towering ego of the cardinal of the west.

A good man

I am writing to comment on your review of Anita M. Caspary's Witness to Integrity. When I became superintendent of Catholic high schools in Los Angeles, I studied at Immaculate Heart College in Hollywood, which was run by the Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. Between going to their college, and visiting their high schools, I came to know these sisters fairly well.

In her book, Caspary is very critical of Cardinal James McIntyre. In my opinion, the cardinal was an outstanding man. He was also a financial genius. Los Angeles was still in a state of growth when he was appointed. During just eleven or twelve years, he opened about thirty parishes and twenty-five elementary schools, and built fourteen diocesan high schools. He also found religious sisters, brothers, and priests to work in those schools.

In my opinion, McIntyre was right about the Immaculate Heart Sisters. Like other American religious communities, they are only a shadow of what they were in the past.
